Vote-by-Mail (voting.works)

https://web.archive.org/web/20201230063334/https://twitter.com/CodeMonkeyZ/status/1344106886715432960

https://www.influencewatch.org/non-profit/voting-works/

Voting works was created within and incubated by the left-leaning Center for Democracy and Technology (CDT). [3] [4] CDT's major donors include large left-of-center foundations, including George Soros's Foundation to Promote Open Society, the Ford Foundation, and the MacArthur Foundation. [5] [6]

https://web.archive.org/web/20200415142705/https://voting.works/covid/

COVID-19: VotingWorks will help states scale vote-by-mail

April 9th, 2020

https://cdt.org/insights/cdt-welcomes-new-non-resident-fellows-for-2021-2023/

Sandra Braman, Abbott Professor of Liberal Arts, Texas A&M University. Sandra Braman is a professor in the Department of Communication at Texas A&M University. Professor Braman's work on the macro-level effects of digital technologies and their policy implications has been supported by the United States National Science Foundation and by the Ford, Rockefeller, and Soros Foundations.

Revision #1
Created 17 August 2023 10:17:09 by emy
Updated 17 August 2023 22:07:09 by emy