

DOITQ

1. President Trump tweets "Thumbs up" from Air Force One on November 08, 2017.

* Remember on this day U.S. operators were still in Saudi Arabia assisting the new Crown prince round up, arrest, & interrogate the corrupt political & business elites (i.e. helping to drain "the Saudi swamp").

2. A closer look at the newspaper on Trump's desk reveals a picture of the new Saudi Crown Prince with the front page headline: "PRINCES AND TYCOONS ARRESTED IN SAUDI CRACKDOWN ON CORRUPTION".

3. If you connect the dots of the "Thumbs up" in the photo it in the photo it would be a giant letter "Q."

4. Even more incredible, the file name of the official photo begins with the letters DOITQ

"DO IT Q"

For a quick breakdown of the odds of this: there are 15 characters in the name string. The possible characters are A-Za-z0-9. 62 possible characters per position each. For DOITQ to appear in capital letters anywhere in that string is almost 1 billion to 1. Then there are 11 possible positions for DOITQ to appear in that string—the odds of DOITQ to appear in the exact order as the first characters in the string—is a calculation that exceeds the capacity of most calculators.
